CAFE LIGHTING & LIVING

Adding curves to interior spaces, be it rounded edged buffets, tables, sofas or chairs, not only visually softens the space, but creates a greater sense of flow. Smooth organic forms and curvaceous lines appeal to our sense of comfort and balance. Unlike straight horizontal or vertical lines, curves are all about movement, happiness and positive emotion and convey a distinct sense of femininity.

Originally popular in the 60's and 70's as part of the mid-century modern movement, curve appeal has made a big comeback over the last few years, and doesn't look like going anywhere. Favoured by interior designers and fashion influencers alike, this retro trend has been reimagined for the 21st century—and we're loving it.

International style guru Athena Calderone notes 'Rounded sofas and amorphous chairs are currently a hallmark of on-trend spaces, particularly if upholstered in textural fabrics, like bouclé, sheepskin, and velvet.'

playing with textures

through a mix of surfaces and tones is also essential in curating an interior that is warm, inviting and inspiring. Boucle and velvets are favourite fabrics that offer tactile beauty, luxe, and a sense of nurture. If you're not quite ready to invest in a curvy sofa, test drive the trend with a curved occasional chair, ottoman or cushion in an array of luscious tones.
