Donations are important:

- Educating all Kiwis about breast awareness, screening and risks.
- Encouraging the development and testing of new technologies for early detection.
- Supporting clinical trials, and lobbying for wider access to trials of new drugs.
- Urging the government to introduce powerful new drugs faster.
- Funding world-class Kiwi researchers to develop new treatments, including a vaccine that could prevent cancers spreading beyond the breast.

Breast cancer is the most common cancer for Kiwi women and the third most common cancer overall.
