

Paladon® 65

The proven heat-curing denture acrylic.

Acrylic for full dentures. We have been setting standards in prosthetics since 1930 with Paladon, the first ever heat-curing denture acrylic. The development of Paladon to Paladon 65 is still today valued for its special mechanical characteristics. Paladon 65 is therefore very widespread. Its pleasingly pliable consistency allows the acrylic to be easily packed. The unusually long working time of 60 minutes gives you the freedom to fabricate several dentures at the same time.

The advantages in summary:

- Long working time allows fabrication of several dentures at once
- Dentures with long term stability
- Low shrinkage means best possible fit
- Colour stable
- Low residual monomer after fabrication
- Available in four colours
- Best possible colour coordination with other Pala denture materials
- Cadmium free
